

Visualization of sensor information using various types of networks

Problems and solutions

Public demand for IoT will lead to greater use of electricity, gas, water, sewers, and other utilities, as well as further refinement of Smart City Project initiatives through collaboration with Shinshu University and the University of Tokyo, and eventual rollout of more advanced IoT technologies and security technologies into local communities.